June 12, 2013 - Costa Mesa, Calif. – Pacific Symphony's Wavelength Festival of Music, presented by the all-new Mercedes-Benz CLA, is pleased to announce a special evening of electronic dance music at Pacific Amphitheatre on Saturday, Aug. 24. KCRW Presents an evening curated by Jason Bentley, the station's music director and host of the signature shows "Morning Becomes Eclectic" and "Metropolis." The event will feature a DJ set from Jason Bentley and performances by groundbreaking electronic artists Z-Trip and Bonobo alongside members of Pacific Symphony.

Pacific Symphony invited Bentley to develop an event as part of the Wavelength Festival of Music that would showcase the global electronic dance movement in an alternative setting. "I think this festival will inspire audiences and allow Pacific Symphony to be seen in a fresh light, presenting multiple musical genres," commented Bentley. "I chose to bring Z-Trip and Bonobo into this project because their diversity as performers, artists and producers matched the collaborative and eclectic feel of this festival concept as a whole."

Zach Sciacca, better known as Z-Trip, is hailed as the award-winning American DJ and producer that pioneered the mashup movement. In 2012 Z-Trip was featured as hip-hop legend LL Cool J's touring DJ and collaborated with Talib Kweli on the album Attack the Block. Bonobo, also known as Simon Green, is a British musician, producer and DJ with a multifaceted and complex musical style featuring sonic backgrounds and distinctive vocals. Bonobo's fifth album The North Borders released in spring 2013 on Ninja Tune records. Bonobo will be performing with select members of Pacific Symphony. Jason Bentley will also be performing alongside the two electronic masterminds.

Wavelength Festival of Music opens at Pacific Amphitheatre on Thursday, Aug. 22 with Bonnie Raitt* and very special guest Keb' Mo'. Friday, Aug. 23, welcomes The Airborne Toxic Event performing with Pacific Symphony and Delta Spirit opening the show.
